Managing Business, Government, and Public Policy
The Washington Campus’ intensive, experiential courses bring participants face-to-face with policy makers, policy influencers, and executives who teach how government works and policy is made; how firms and industries are affected and can effectively manage these dynamics; and how policy can be strategically and ethically shaped to create profitable, sustainable solutions for business, government, and society.

From recent MBA course participants

• “The content of Washington Campus is critical to business leaders in understanding the business that is America. It should be considered a core requirement for all MBA students.”

• “Fantastic, very informative. Relevant topics, highly knowledgeable speakers, valuable insights. This program should be a requirement for all MBAs.”

• “This is not an experience you can get anywhere else.”

• “This is a vital program I endorse and encourage every future business leader to take. It will offer you a fresh perspective on public policy.”

• “Must have course for individuals seeking to obtain corporate leadership positions.”
